Canine infectious tracheobronchitis (Canine Cough or Kennel Cough)

The health of your pet is important to us and keeping your pet safe, healthy and happy while they are in our care is our number one priority.

To help ensure the well-being of your pet and guard against the spread of infectious diseases, such as canine cough (aka kennel cough), we have a vaccination policy (information is available on our website) and we adhere to a strict cleaning and disinfecting protocol. However, even with this strict policy and even though a dog has received the Bordetella vaccine, they may still contract canine cough. Although not 100% effective (like any vaccine), the bordetella vaccine does help prevent outbreaks of the disease and helps mitigate symptoms if the virus is contracted.

Even in the most hygienic, well ventilated, spacious dog facilities, the possibility of a dog acquiring Canine Cough still exists. Canine Cough can be acquired from your neighbor's dog, from the dog park, from your dog's veterinarian, from the sidewalk where an infected dog walked earlier, etc. For this reason, try not to blame anyone or any place if your dog develops Canine Cough. There may have been an infected dog, unknown to anyone, that acted as a source for other dogs. Keep in mind that the virus is spread by either airborne or direct contact situations; symptoms may not appear for a period of up to 10 days; and your dog may have been exposed prior to visiting our facility.

The signs of Canine Cough usually will last from 7 to 21 days and can be very annoying for the dog and the dog's owners. If you suspect your dog has Canine Cough, isolate your dog to prevent spreading to other dogs and call or visit your veterinarian for medical advice. Keep in mind that only a veterinarian can diagnose canine cough as the symptoms are similar to other diseases. However, if a dog in our care appears to have the symptoms of canine cough, we contact the owner to pick up their dog. In the meantime, we keep the dog isolated. If your dog is diagnosed with canine cough after a stay at our facility, please notify us. Providing this information can help us protect the health of other dogs staying at our facility.

Owner sign off

I have read the information on Canine Cough and agree to keep dog's vaccination status current while attending Paws Pet Resort. I further understand that the vaccination does not cover all strains of the virus and my dog may still contract Canine Cough. Initial: _____

I will not hold Paws Pet Resort liable if my dog contracted canine cough, financially or otherwise. It is a risk I accept understanding that when a large group of dogs congregate in one place—much like children or adults congregating together and contracting a cold or the flu. Initial: _____

I also understand that this information is for general information purposes only and is not intended to diagnose any illness or take the place of professional medical advice from my veterinarian. Initial: _____
